Negro Student Withdraws From Alabama University

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—The withdrawal of Negro student James A. Hood from the University of Alabama could mean the end of his brief career as a student at the school following his stormy enrollment two months ago.

Hood's attorney announced the withdrawal and said the 20-year-old Gadsden, Ala., student was dropping out because of his physical and mental condition.

The university confirmed Hood's withdrawal Sunday and announced that a meeting of the board of trustees called to consider charges resulting from a speech Hood made in Gadsden July 16 had been canceled.

University officials had sent a letter to Hood notifying him of the charges against him and asking him to be present before the dean of men at 2 p.m. today. The letter stipulated these charges:

—That Hood accused the university of a conspiracy in setting up a news conference for him in an attempt to violate a rule against student news conferences. The rule was imposed when he was admitted to the university with another Negro student, Vivian J. Malone, 20.

—That Hood accused university officials of attempting to keep a faculty member from giving him an "A."

—That Hood accused a state official of cursing him in a dormitory.

A trustee who would not be identified said that in his opinion the charges against Hood could be grounds for refusal of the university to admit him for the fall term, which begins Sept. 20.

The trustee said that Hood still would be subject to a hearing before any decision would be made concerning his readmittance.

Hood's attorney, Arthur Shores of Birmingham, said the Negro student has been advised to avoid routine duties and activity until his condition is improved "in order to avoid a complete mental and physical breakdown."

The two Negro students were enrolled in summer school two months ago despite efforts by Gov. George Wallace to stop them by standing in the doorway at the admissions building.

Wallace permitted the enrollment when federalized National Guard troops escorted the Negro students to the building. He was unavailable for comment on Hood's withdrawal.

Jackie Visited By Caroline, John Jr., JFK

President, First Lady Cheered By Children's Actions

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—The President's son, John F. Kennedy Jr., watched photographers' flashing lights as he visited his mother's hospital suite Sunday night.

Looking out of their car with an air of one who had made a great discovery, the 2½-year-old youngster declared: "I betcha they're taking our picture."

President Kennedy, like everyone else who had it, burst into laughter.

Hand-in-hand, the President had taken his two youngsters, John and Caroline, 5½, on separate visits Sunday to their mother.

Caroline, with a bouquet of garden flowers she picked herself and little John asking "Where's mommy?" all the way to her room, saw their mother for the first time since she was taken to the hospital Wednesday for the premature birth of a third child, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy. The infant lived less than two days.

The First Lady, 34, is reported continuing to make a splendid recovery. She got out of bed for the first time Sunday, took a walk in her suite and began to eat solid food, including hamburger.

The youngsters, aside from the reunion, were treated to a helicopter ride from their Sousa Island summer home near Hyannis Port, Mass., to this air base, a 22-mile flight.

Kennedy started his children's flight after attending Mass at St. Francis Xavier Church in Hyannis Port.

Respect Senate Adjourns In Memory of Sen. Kefauver

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate adjourns today as a mark of respect for Sen. Estes Kefauver, the Tennessee Democrat with the big handshake who died Saturday.

The quiet-spoken lawyer who battled organized crime and monopolies during his 24 years in Congress will be buried Tuesday in the family cemetery near the Kefauver farm home at Madisonville, Tenn.

A military plane will carry Kefauver's body to Tennessee Tuesday morning. Mrs. Kefauver, their children and a congressional delegation will be aboard another plane.

The senator's body will lie in state at the First Baptist Church in Madisonville, for four hours before the simple midday funeral services at the farm. The services will be conducted on the porch of the family home.

An estimated 500 persons paid their respects Sunday at a Washington funeral home to the tall Tennesseean who was the 1958 Democratic vice presidential candidate on the ticket headed by Adlai E. Stevenson. Kefauver had sought the presidential nomination that year and in 1952.

The senator died of a ruptured aorta, the main artery from the heart. He had entered Bethesda Naval Hospital Thursday night after suffering what aides described as a mild heart attack.

Informing Cape Cod of Kefauver's death, President Kennedy said the senator was "a public servant of energy, integrity and talent. His devotion to the public interest made him a powerful influence for good in our nation's affairs."

Centennial Week-Long Beloit Observance Opens

BELOIT — Services Sunday at the Friends Church opened the week-long centennial observance here.

Mayor Andrew Filp extended greetings, and the message was delivered by Rev. James Tatsch. The choir sang special selections, with James Berry as soloist.

Highlight of today's festivities will be the crowning of the centennial queen, and beard judging contest this evening. The Kangaroo Court also will be in session.

The seven queen candidates are Kay and Linda Snyder, Jo Ann Reynolds, Pat Miller, Sanra Savage, Linda Criss and Cheryl Russell.

A $25 bond will be presented to the man with the "best Quaker beard" during the beard judging event. Other prizes will be for the best groomed beard and the best mustache.

The Centennial parade is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday forming at the Quaker City Plaza. About 20 floats and 85 antique cars belonging to enthusiasts in the area will be featured.

The New Waterford Band will present three half-hour shows Wednesday evening. Also scheduled Wednesday night is a tractor pulling contest. Prizes will be awarded in each weight class.

Another tractor pull is scheduled Thursday night.

The firemen's parade will be held Friday night, with about 45 trucks and several marching units taking part. A fish fry will precede the parade.

The Sebring Barbershop Chorus and Quartet will present a program.

Saturday is "Rural Day," and a number of events have been scheduled to climax the week-long centennial observance.

A pancake and sausage breakfast will be held Sunday.

Boy Slightly Hurt When Hit by Car

A two-year-old Prospect St. Ext. toll received a bump on the head when he was hit by a car on W. Pershing St. Saturday at 6:25 p.m.

Randy Ludt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ludt of MC 1, was treated at Salem Central Clinic Hospital and released after he ran into the path of an auto driven by Fried Earl, 66, of 474 W. 4th St.

Police said the child ran out of the house in front of the car whose right front struck him.

A Salem auto and another from Pennsylvania collided Sunday morning at 10 at Highland Ave. and E. State St. Police say Wilson C. Richardson, 22, of Tarenton, Pa., was legally stopped on Highland when Edward H. Radler, 49, of 1474 Cleveland St., turned too short from State St. onto Highland, hitting the Richardson vehicle.

A hit-skip incident occurred sometime Sunday morning when the parked car of Earl William Taylor, 41, of 563 Aetna St. was hit and damaged.

The car which allegedly struck the Taylor auto was located by police and was found to be owned by Paula Simnick of Berlin Center, who told police she loaned the auto to John Dillon, 27, of 458 Aetna St. Dillon said he did not know who was driving the car that hit Taylor's. The left rear fender of the parked car was damaged.

Appeal for Blood Donors Is Issued

A full list of blood donors is still needed for the summer visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile here Aug. 19. Louis J. Raymond, chairman of the North Columbiana County Red Cross blood program, said today.

Raymond said not a single donor appointment has been made so far through the Red Cross office.

In order to assure attaining the quota of 125 pints, it is necessary to enlist 176 donors, as many donors fail to keep their appointments and others are deferred by physicians.

The bloodmobile will be stationed at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour on E. State St. between the hours of 12 noon to 6 p.m. Appointments can be made by calling the Red Cross office, Raymond said.

1,500 See Third Annual Air Show

Perfect flying weather brought out a crowd of 1,500 persons to the third annual Air Show Sunday at the Salem Air Park on Ellsworth Rd.

A high point of the event was the performance of George Monea of Alliance in his Pitt Special, a small, fully aerobatic bi-plane that can be maneuvered in intricate, bizarre patterns. The plane, with an 18-foot-wing spread, is one of few in the world that can do a forward tumble, according to Capt. David Linn, commander of Salem Squadron 1302, Civil Air Patrol. His squadron and the air park were co-sponsors of the show.

The crowd also saw demonstration flying of other military and civil aircraft. About 100 persons were given birdseye views of Salem and the area on 10 to 15 minutes plane jaunts. For many, the experience was the first in the air.

A dozen members of the Alliance Parachute Club went through their dangerous poses. Also on hand were aircraft and personnel of the 83rd Aviation Co. Frank Easton of Sevakene Lake exhibited and demonstrated his home-made "Flying Flea," an ultra light, experimental craft.

Man 'Catches' Bogus Money While Fishing

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Rampino, 28, his son Frank, 4, and brother-in-law, Richard Malfitano, 12, went fishing off Brooklyn Saturday. Their luck was lousy, no matter how you look at it.

Rampino, who hadn't caught a fish all day, hooked a wad of paper. Excitedly, he reeled it in — and unrolled 49 $100 bills.

After a quick trip home to talk it over with his wife, Rampino took the bills to a police station. Detectives examined them briefly and gave him the word: "Counterfeit."

Claims Treaty Doesn't Risk U.S. Security

Secretary Speaks To Senate Foreign Relations Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk urged the Senate today to ratify the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, saying it should slow the arms race without damage to the security of the United States.

Rusk testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as lead-off witness in the Kennedy administration's drive for Senate approval of the U.S.-British-Soviet pact to outlaw all nuclear explosions except those underground.

When Rusk took the witness chair, he was put under oath on the motion of Republican committee members.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, said all witnesses on the treaty would be sworn.

Rusk sought to counter possible arguments against the pact that some senators might raise.

He emphasized that the signing of the treaty by East Germany will in no way imply United States recognition of the Communist East German regime.

He said East German authorities will subscribe to the treaty in Moscow, and added: "The Soviet Union may notify us of that act. We are under no obligation to accept that notification and we have no intention of doing so, but the East German regime would have committed itself to abide by the provisions of the treaty."

Rusk said: "The United States and the Soviet Union already have enough nuclear power to inflict enormous destruction on each other. Still, the search for bigger, more destructive weapons goes on."

"Yet greater armament has not demonstrably brought greater security. The treaty, if observed, should slow this spiral, without damage to our relative strength."

Rusk and President Kennedy conferred by telephone for about 25 minutes Sunday shortly after the secretary arrived in Washington. They will meet at the White House late today as soon as the President returns from Cape Cod.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be on hand for the meeting.

Kennedy also called Democratic congressional leaders to the White House for a later conference.

Rusk, who met Friday with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, told newsmen that the next round of U.S.-Soviet negotiations "will not move with great speed." It was learned, however, that he came back with the impression that the Soviet leader wants to carry on talks with the United States to ease tensions in Europe.

Rusk made clear that he will explain to the Senate committee the assurances he gave West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer

Metropolitan Opens Doors To Negroes

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's richest and biggest landlord, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., is opening its doors to Negro and other non-white tenants.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, calls it "a major breakthrough" in the Negro's drive to get good housing—one of the prime goals in today's militant civil rights struggle.

The Metropolitan decision means that all — white projects such as Parkfairfax in Alexandria, Va., across the Potomac from the nation's capital, and Parkchester, the enormous 38,000-person development in the Bronx, will have Negro tenants.

Rev. Winn Elected Again By Friends

For the 14th time, Rev. Harold B. Winn, pastor of the Salem First Friends Church, was chosen superintendent of Damascus Quarterly Meeting of Friends at the Saturday afternoon session in the Canton First Friends Church. Herman C. Stratton of Salem was renamed presiding clerk for the ninth time.

The Quarterly Meeting is made up of Friends churches in this area, including the two Salem churches, Canton, Alliance, Beloit, Brewster, Damascus, Deerfield, East Goshen, Howland, Poland, Quaker Hill at Sebring, Lisbon, Trinity and Winona.

Other QM clerks re-elected are: Miss Gladys Haldean of Alliance & Mrs. Harold B. Winn, recording and reading clerks, respectively. Fred Chambers of Damascus and Miss Thera Cosand of Sebring were retained as treasurer and statistician, respectively.

Superintendents include: Missionary, Mrs. Charles Matti of Beloit; Christian Education, Rev. Douglas Jones of Deerfield; Moral Action, Miss Gladys Hicks of All-Queen of Poland representative to the Women's Union of Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends, Mrs. Thomas Cope of Salem.

The two clerks of the Ministry and Oversight Body, re-elected are Rev. Edward Escolme of Damascus, presiding and Miss Ethel Naylor of Beloit recording.

Delegates from the M & O Body to OYM include: Rev. Herbert Handy of Alliance; Rev. William Walz of Sebring; Rev. Charles Kernodle of Beloit and Miss Pearl Walker of Salem.

Ushers from Salem First Friends to serve during YM include:

Donald M. Roher, Ray L. Dean, William Schaeffer, Kenneth Shallenberger, Alfred Crawford, Wilbur Kirtz, Jesse D. Paxson and Freeman Morrison.

Reports revealed that the total membership of the QM churches is 2,306, while the Bible Schools have a total enrollment of 2,406. Speakers for the devotional periods were Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. DeVol veteran missionaries from China and Formosa. The DeVols, who have been home on a year's furlough, will return to Formosa (Taiwan) shortly after YM.

Delegates from the Salem churches who attended the Saturday sessions of the QM were Samuel Rea, Jr., Mrs. Lee S. Heineman, Mrs. Constance Everett and Mrs. Carl Lippiatt.

Tech School Event Attracts Over 400

Turnout at the first open house of the Salem School of Technology Friday and Saturday nights was sufficient to offer hope that the event may become annual according to supervisor Holland Cameron.

More than 400 persons attended the open house to view senior projects and classroom equipment and facilities and talk with administrators and instructors.

"We were well pleased with the response to the open house and the interest shown by visitors," Cameron reported.

Among the visitors were persons from Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Three Hurt In Road Mishaps

Four Accidents Probed by Patrol

Three men were slightly injured in four mishaps on district highways over the weekend, the Lisbon post of the State Highway Patrol reported.

Lester Brendlinger, 64, of 196 W. Oregon Ave., Sebring and Ray E. Allen Jr., 41 of Columbus were taken to Alliance City Hospital for x-rays of the back after their autos collided Saturday morning at 11:30 on Route 62 four miles east of Alliance.

The patrol said Brendlinger was stopped and beginning to turn left into the path of Allen's westbound car when the mishap occurred. Brendlinger was cited for reckless operation.

Ralph Ross, 29, of Lisbon St., East Liverpool was treated by a physician for abrasions of the forehead after his auto collided Saturday at 12:55 p.m. on County Rd. 424, one mile west of Route 30, with a car driven by Mrs. Dorothy Woods, 40 of RD 2 East Liverpool.

The patrol reported Ross was westbound at a stated speed of 60 miles an hour. He rounded a curve in the road and struck Mrs. Wood's car which had pulled from a parking lot into the roadway. Ross was cited for speeding and Mrs. Woods for failure to yield the right of way.

Two Columbiana cars collided Saturday night at 7:15 on County Rd. 423 six-tenths of a mile east of Route 14, but no one was hurt.

An auto operated by Joseph Little, 16, of 146 Vine St. rounded a curve on the wrong side of the township road and hit an oncoming vehicle operated by Jane Freer 23, of 325 Railroad

KSU Center Plans For Opening In Fall

Richard J. Velzy, director of the Salem Academic Center of Kent State University, announced today that fall schedules are being prepared and will be available to students about Aug. 26.

All former students and new applicants will automatically be mailed schedules, he said.

Fall quarter registration will be held Sept. 9 from 6 to 8 p.m. at the center's office in Salem Senior High School. The ACT test for new students will be given Sept. 11 at 6 p.m.

Velzy said classes are scheduled to open Sept. 25 and 26 and will run to Dec. 13. All classes are held in the evening.

KSU at the Warren Academic Center this fall is also offering graduate courses in Research, Slow Learning and Secondary Supervision.

Fees for the fall quarter at the Salem center will be $12 per credit hour plus a small library fee. The maximum fee is $112. Books are extra.

Administrators expect the enrollment at the Salem Academic Center and the 10 other, two-year KSU branches in northeast Ohio to total 4,500 students this fall. An additional 12,500 students are expected on the KSU campus.

Velzy said the local center offers the first two years of a degree program with subjects taught by university faculty and fully accredited and transferable. Degree programs are available in Arts and Sciences, Business Administration and Fine and Professional Arts. Subjects offered are English, history, math, sociology, biology, management, music and political science.

1,300 4-H Youths To Exhibit at Fair

LISBON — Two hundred prospective jurors were selected at the Courthouse this morning with the first 50 named scheduled to report for possible duty on the grand jury which will convene Sept. 10.

The others will be ordered to appear later as petit jurors for trials in the September term of court.

James Gregg of Salem and Clifford Connolly of East Liverpool, jury commissioners, will select the jurors, assisted by representatives from the clerk of courts and sheriff's office and a court stenographer.

RURITANS PLAN PICNIC

A picnic and wiener roast will be held by the Guilford Ruritan Club Wednesday evening at Guilford Park Pavilion. Games for children and adults will follow the dinner, according to Richard Andrus, publicity chairman.

Bickering Among Party Members Already Started By GOP, Dems

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — "If we must disagree," said Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, as if cheering up a debating society with a fairy tale, "let's disagree without being disagreeable."

This was his message Sunday to California Democrats already fussing among themselves a year before President Kennedy runs for re-election. Southern Democrats didn't get the message. Republicans won't, either.

The Southerners are so mad at Kennedy for his civil rights efforts that Mississippi gubernatorial candidates ran last week as anti-Kennedy men and Sunday Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia said: "I'm a Democrat but I have no intention of getting out and knocking myself out to support the Kennedy administration next year."

Russell not only has voted against the President on a good part of his domestic legislative proposals but will lead the expected Southern filibuster against Kennedy's civil rights bill.

Kennedy was caught in a political revolving door on this one. He had to be pushed into offering the bill—by direct action of Negroes North and South — and while it will cost him heavily among white Southerners it would have cost him among Northern Negroes if he hadn't.

But the Southerners will have trouble deciding which way to turn if New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is the Republicans' 1964 choice to oppose Kennedy.

Rockefeller, whose state has a large Negro population, is plugging for civil rights legislation, too. He already is taking swipes at the one man who seems to have the edge on him at this moment, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Goldwater, idol of the conservative and far right Republicans, was recently admonished by Rockefeller, who can hardly be disturbed by the thought, that if he doesn't watch out he'll become a captive of the racial right.

The New Yorker accused the Arizonan of writing off the Negro vote before the 1964 campaign begins.

Goldwater, who has made some strong statements on running the government without explaining all of them, reported that he wasn't writing off anybody's vote and accused Rockefeller of encouraging political cannibalism.

He said Rockefeller was trying to get Republicans to eat Republicans and complained the governor was using the "guilt by association" technique in identifying him with the "radical right."

And at this very moment some of the Republican leaders in Congress have been cautious not only about the civil rights bill but about the limited nuclear test-ban treaty Kennedy recently got from Khrushchev.

While they hemmed and hawed, a Negro leader—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People—tried to build a fire under them with a little warning.

"I am inclined to agree that the Republicans want the Negro to be free, not a madman's," said Wilkins, carrying on a negative campaign on the civil rights bill they should adopt a positive policy and out-Kennedy the Kennedys."

While white Southerners would be confused if they had to choose between Kennedy and Rockefeller Northern Negroes will be confused if Kennedy should now go less than all-out for his civil rights bill and they have to choose in 1964 between him and a highly conservative Republican.

Yet, if Kennedy loses Southern white votes over civil rights, his nuclear test ban treaty will get him votes elsewhere, which is something the Republicans in Congress can hardly be unaware of in deciding how to vote on the treaty.

Things ought to be getting more disagreeable right along now.

Cleveland Girl 15, Murdered After Dance

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police waited today for pathologists' reports and kept questioning youngsters in their effort to solve the brutal and baffling murder of blonde Patricia Ann Rebholz.

The 15-year-old high school cheerleader's body was found early Friday on a back lot in suburban Greenhills. She had been strangled and her skull was fractured, but her purse was found nearby and she had not been sexually molested.

Don Roney, assistant Hamilton County prosecutor, continued questioning youngsters who had been at a teen-agers' dance with Miss Rebholz shortly before the slaying.

"It was an unfortunate murder, not a madman's," said Roney, scoffing at suggestions the killing was the work of a maniac.

She left the dance Thursday night to walk to a boy friend's home. Her body was found across the street from her destination.

Police said they had no solid leads in the case.

One of the few clues to the killing may be some dark red spots found on a nearby house. The stains were being tested to determine if they are human blood.

The weapon used for the killing — an arm-thick section of a fence post — lay next to Miss Rebholz's body when a policeman found her.

CHARGE IN MURDER

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Police may file more serious charges today against Albert Reid, 42, of Bluffton, who already has been charged with shooting with intent to kill. Reid was arrested at a Bluffton trailer court Aug. 5 after an argument that led to the wounding of Robert Bensman, 31, of Toledo. Bensman died Saturday night in Lima's Memorial Hospital.

Farm accidents killed 8,700 persons in 1961 — one every hour.

Mrs. Pottorf Elected At School Reunion

Mrs. Jess Pottorf of Salem was elected president of Highland School reunion held Sunday at Mt. Nebo Grange hall. She succeeds Frank Vincent, also of Salem.

Other officers elected are Earl Freeman, vice-president, Mrs. William Lewis, Leetonia, secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Lilly Gaunt of Salem corresponding secretary.

The program included vocal solos by Mrs. John Schnader, Lisbon Rd., accompanied by Mrs. Roy Welch of Lisbon; Book review by Mrs. Pottorf pageant, "The World of Tomorrow," by Mrs. Carl Bailey, Mrs. Merle Mcpherson, Mrs. Harold Sebrill, Mrs. Robert Rockwell and Mrs. Howard Wilhelm; reading, "Forty Years Ago," by Mrs. Blanche Stratford, Canfield and original readings by Owen Pottorf of Winton.

Mrs. Charles Morlan was program chairman. The business meeting was in charge of Vincent.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Respect That Power Mower

The popularity of power mowers is increasing with everybody—except the 50,000 to 75,000 persons who suffer preventable accidents as a result of them each summer.

Dr. Brandstadt

According to the National Safety Council, the chief reason for these accidents is that many do not appreciate what a dangerous weapon the power mower can be.

A rotary mower's blades rotate at between 3,000 and 4,000 revolutions per minute. They will cut through almost anything that gets in their way. When they strike such solid objects as metal, stones, or glass they may propel them with killing force.

IF SOME SOLID object does clog the blades, no attempt to dislodge it should be made until the motor has been shut off. If the blades are rotating you must not only shut off the motor but also wait until the blades have stopped turning.

Anything that allows your foot to slip under the blade housing can result in a bad accident. This can happen if you start the motor with one foot placed on the housing. It can happen if the grass is wet and you are moving too fast. There is a very real danger that it will happen if you are moving on a slope.

If you are pushing the mower uphill, it may slip back on you, and if you are pushing it downhill you may lose your footing and slide into the mower. If the incline is not steep you should mow across the slope.

If your mower cannot be easily controlled this way, you should, as an added precaution, attach a rope to the mower and have someone walk along the top of the slope and use the rope to steady the machine.

Because one never knows when such a slip may occur, it is smart to wear steel-toed safety shoes while mowing with a power mower. Such shoes are no guarantee of safety, but they will minimize danger.

IT IS FOLLY to leave the motor running when the machine is unattended for even a few seconds. And it's folly, too, to allow children to come near the mower while it is in operation. Because of the dangers involved and the number and severity of accidents in recent years, manufacturers are bringing out several safety devices.

Among the most promising is a new mower with a powerful fan that blows downward so that grass, stones or anything else struck is thrown to the ground and not away from the mower.

Another device is an S-shaped blade to replace the straight blade. This, too, has the virtue of not hurling objects very far or very fast.

There is a new rubber blade that will cut grass but not shoes. It will throw rocks only about one foot from the housing.

So, even if you don't want to rush out and buy a new and safer model, you can take much of the danger out of your present mower at a very moderate cost.

What's Wrong With Congress?

It is a rare day when no think-piece is tapped out on an otherwise idle typewriter in Washington about President Kennedy's failure to dominate Congress.

The relationship is highlighted by what has been going on in Senate Judiciary Committee hearings on the administration's civil rights bill. One senator, Sam J. Ervin Jr. of North Carolina, has been badgering Attorney General Kennedy in what everybody recognizes as a committee filibuster.

The committee's chairman is James O. Eastland of Mississippi, another irreconcilable Democrat whose boast is he never has let a civil rights bill be reported out of this key committee.

BUT WHILE the subject of the think-pieces coming out of Washington this summer has been the inability of President Kennedy to dominate Congress, another subject of equal interest and vastly greater importance would be the inability of Congress to command popular respect.

In the absence of presidential domination, Congress, is giving an appearance of legislative futility.

Senators and representatives who oppose the presidential program have no program of their own. They bear a striking resemblance balance to the French legislators whose antics paved the way for the Gaullist movement, which filled the vacuum of fatuity created by politicians with no purpose other than playing politics.

Obviously, this is not true of individual members of the U.S. Senate and House. It was not true of individual members of the French House of Deputies. But the impression their behavior made on the French people finally forced them to give up hope for the Fourth Republic and turn to the Gaullists for stronger executive leadership.

THAT IS NOT to suggest that Americans are in a similar mood. It is evident, however, that Americans are imbued with a sense of frustration about the ability of the legislative branch of their government to acquit itself of responsibility in the absence of strong executive leadership.

There is no confidence to be won by blocking executive recommendations. This is the function of the loyal opposition — the Republicans.

It is not what is expected from the Democrats, who hold an overwhelming majority, yet lack the party cohesion to do anything with it.

Back to the Central Fact

When all the marching up and down and going in and about and around and out have been done, the central fact in the railroad dispute over work rules is the federal government's firm determination to have no stoppage of rail service.

The right to strike is restricted by this determination, which is backed by the force of popular opinion. Otherwise, President Kennedy could not maintain his position that the rail dispute, which had not been settled by a presidential commission, or the special machinery of the Railway Labor Act, should go to Congress and perhaps ultimately to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Secretary of Labor Wirtz has insisted throughout the dispute that face - to - face negotiating is the only way out, even after the Kennedy administration had turned over the dispute to Congress. It is reassuring, therefore, that negotiating has been resumed.

It is absurd to ask any railroad union to bargain its employees' livelihood away. But it is not absurd to expect that a railroad union should negotiate the best settlement it can make when its members' jobs are diminishing.

That has been the responsibility of many other union negotiators. It is the responsibility of the men currently negotiating for the best settlement they can get for the railroad firemen whose services no longer are required, as well as for those firemen whose services will continue to be needed.

Ingenuity Finds a Way

Time Magazine's account of professional stage people in Los Angeles who collect unemployment insurance between engagements — members of the "55 Club" — raises a question presumably settled many years ago when a baseball player put in a claim for unemployment insurance during the off-season.

His claim was turned down on the grounds that he was the property of the club and theoretically employed by it, though not actually working at the time, nor having reached an agreement on his next year's contract. Perhaps actors are different, in the sense that they are free agents between engagements. At least, relatively few of them are under contract, and none of them could be under the reserve clause contracts allowable in baseball. But all of them do expect to work again and some of the claimants know when the next job is due.

Time Magazine's report on 55-clubbing ($55 is the maximum weekly benefit) also includes a retired army colonel's success in claiming unemployment compensation, on the grounds he was retired against his will because of his age and is still available for work in his regular occupation — colonelcy.

All stories of this nature — all stories that show how ingenuity finally gets around the spirit and letter of laws designed to help human beings — bring the day closer when there will be a major overhauling of unemployment compensation procedures to match the overhauling of relief practices now going forward in many states, including Ohio.

Librarians Alarmed

Miss Nellie Glass, capable and efficient head librarian at the Salem Public Library, has joined the chorus of protests by library officials throughout the state over the threat of the "Little Hoover Commission" to write off the state library as a needless expense.

The Ohio General Assembly appropriated $808,000 for state library operations for the biennium and this was a reduction of $42,000 from the 1961 fund allocation.

Since no immediate action is anticipated in "shelving" the state library, a study ought to be made to determine if the state unit duplicates any services of public libraries elsewhere. Economies possibly can be effected but any action to destroy a storehouse of knowledge that has been built up over a period of 145 years would be a backward step, we believe. The state library should be preserved.

Take a Number

By Truman Twill

All the humorists have been taking cracks at the great American numbers game, which is not without elements of fun.

Except, I am not amused. To people like me, the whole thing's tragic. There isn't a laugh in a computer of the digits that me must live by.

Last night the lady I played the numbers game with said, "Hay there, Numero Uno, what is the ZIP code number of this pad?" and I had no more idea than a Belgian hare.

It had fled my mind, which is what happens to all numerical information in there. I mumbled an apology for having a short memory and promised to look it up first thing in the morning. Then it happened. . . I found the ZIP number and was mumbling it over and over to keep it hot until I could get to the phone. I started the rigmarole of activating the electronic complexities of the all-number dialing that goes with do-it-yourself telephone service and realized I was dialing the ZIP code numerals.

I broke the connection and started over, which means dialing a 9 before I could start the numerical hodge-podge that represents Belly Acres. There my mind went blank. I had forgotten my own telephone number. By the time I had found the mental button to produce it, the ZIP number had vanished.

When I finally reached my opposite number, formerly referred to as the opposite sex, I was mumbling my favorite relaxation inducer — the multiplication table by 17s. I was just passing 2,176 when she answered. She thought that was the ZIP number.

When she was straightened out, I checked to be sure it was safe to hang up, because she, too, has trouble with numbers. "How old were you on your last birthday?" I sprang this with no warning. "The number you are calling has been disconnected, pip-pip, pip," she said. "I am two thousand one hundred and seventy-six. This is a recording. Thank you, you, you, you. . ."

"Numero uno," I said.

"Twenty-three skidoo," she replied. Maybe she is 2,176.

In my wallet I have a card with a line of digits that entitles me to put in a claim for my Social Security benefits. I have one that entitles me to hold up my head in the bank that computes my status in the materialistic world.

They have put a number on my rural mail box, which I cannot remember. They have put a number on my auto, likewise. If I owned a boat, there would be a number on that, too.

This is necessary. There are too many of us to keep track of by name. We're being turned into numbers like those fellows whose pictures are displayed in postoffices. It's all necessary, logical and tragic, if your mind garbles numbers the way mine does.

I can't even remember an auto license plate number long enough to make out a registration card at a motel. Who do they think I am? Anybody?

Groups Organize To Fight JFK's Liberal Policies

By RAYMOND MOLEY

The opposition to President Kennedy's liberal policies will not fail in 1964 because of lack of organized opposition groups. Two new ones appeared last week.

One is called BIPAC, Business and Industry Political Action Committee, which will mobilize business and industrial leaders to aid conservative candidates for Congress.

The other is the Critical Issues Council, composed for the most part of former aides and colleagues of President Eisenhower, who will issue reports on special issues. BIPAC fills a long-neglected need. Organized labor has had its COPE for years and has been most effective in helping to elect members of the Senate and House. In fact, it is so well organized and financed that the official Democratic party has largely turned over that part of its operation to the labor unions' political agency.

While businessmen have keenly felt the impact of Mr. Kennedy's liberal policies, they have been unable to resist at the polls.

They have made contributions to candidates at the local level and have spent large sums in maintaining representatives in Washington but there has been no united effort by them.

While the business community has almost a monopoly of the managerial talent of the nation, it has been unable or unwilling to mobilize its genius for organization in politics.

IN PART this neglect is due to the reluctance of business to engage in partisan politics. In part it's due to the concept, firmly held by so many business leaders, that a businessman makes a poor politician.

Both of these deterrents are ill-conceived. In many instances the officers of companies have openly participated in politics without losing customers. And several businessmen have been successful when they consented to run for office.

Arthur (Red) Motley of Parade Publications has labored for years to stimulate the interest of businessmen in politics — first as chairman of a committee of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and then as president of that body.

Owing to his labors, the chamber developed courses in practical politics which have been given in hundreds of companies and communities to thousands of participants.

THE IDEA embodied in BIPAC to concentrate mainly on campaigns for the House of Representatives is entirely practical. The organization is bipartisan because there are plenty of sound and conservative Democrats as well as Republicans who need help in their districts. And to concentrate on practical organization, without taking positions on presidential candidates or writing platforms for the parties, BIPAC will not antagonize the regular party organizations.

The Critical Issues Council is a new development in the Republican Citizens Committee, which was created at the Gettysburg farm of Gen. Eisenhower in 1962.

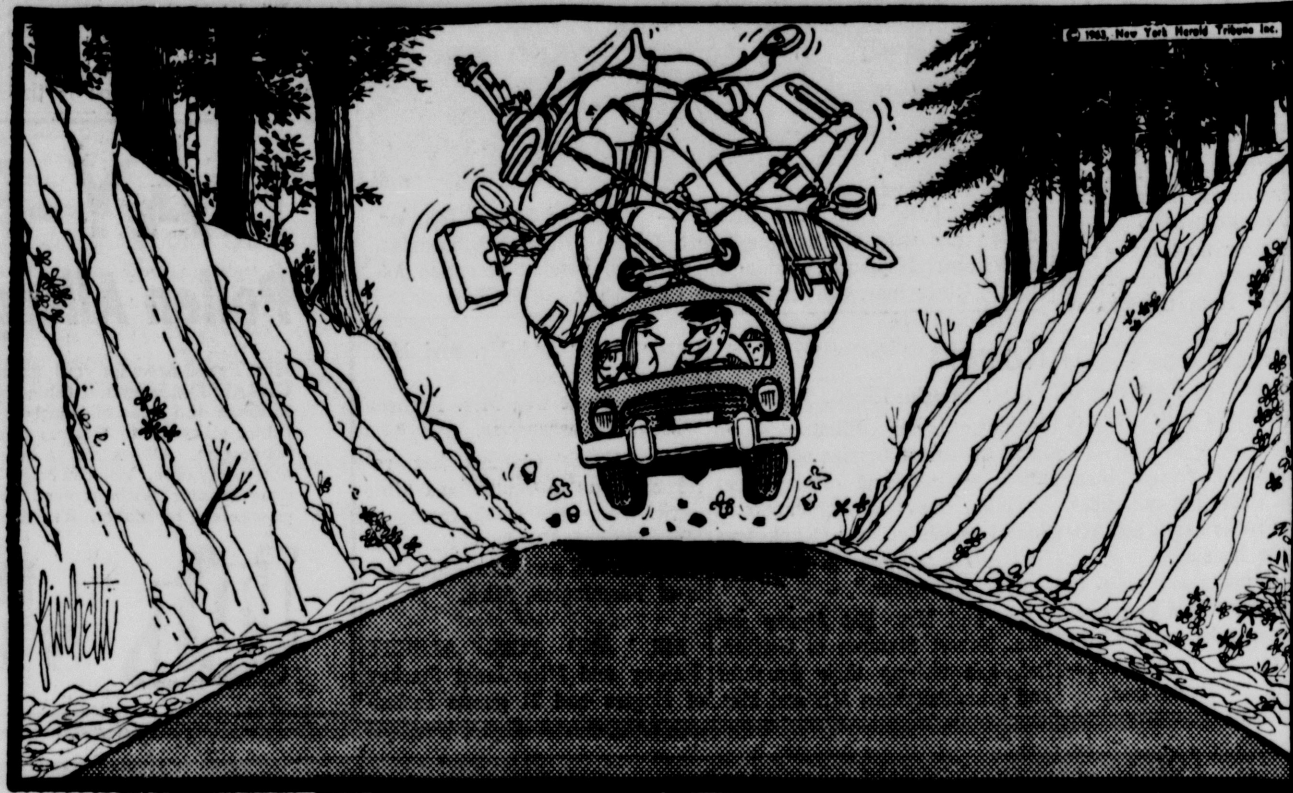

The original purpose of the committee was most commendable, for it was designed to set up auxiliary groups in urban centers and states to help and not compete with the regular Republican organizations. But as far as publicity is concerned, this earlier purpose of the Republican Citizens Committee has been overshadowed by the new Critical Issues Council. It's no secret that this excursion into party politics is resented by the Republican membership in Congress. Thus, there is a danger of party disunity and conflict.

The Critical Issues Council is headed by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, whose views on national issues are similar to those of Eastern liberal Republicans.

THE MAJORITY of the members of the council are former members of the Eisenhower administration. They are distinguished people. But they represent an administration that has been out of office 31 months. In those months a new administration has assumed power which has propounded policies and created problems never before faced. The question arises whether the Republican policies of the Eisenhower years in the 1950s are adequate to meet the conditions of the 1960s.

Gen. Eisenhower is, no doubt, the most popular American political figure. But the elections of 1960 and 1962 proved that his popularity cannot be transferred to those formerly associated with him. Hence, the impact of this group upon the public will hardly be notable.

It's not new statements of principles that the Republican party needs. It is better organization in the districts and states. This is where BIPAC will be most useful.

"It's Good To Get Away From It All Even If We Had To Take It All With Us"

Back to the Minors

By PETER EDSON

How does Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., get that way? What does he mean by making a speech saying that the Washington Senators ought to win more ball games?

He was referring, of course, to the Washington baseball club and not to the 99 other distinguished softball statesmen who are his Capitol colleagues.

The senator obviously overlooks the fact that if the Washington Senators—the hardball club—won more games, it wouldn't be normal. Washington's fans wouldn't know what to do if their team went into a winning streak.

The Washington ball club hasn't had the America League only three times this century. Such modesty is hard to find in Washington!

BUT HUMPHREY TOOK a swing at the ball club for losing so many games in its fancy new D.C. Stadium as part of a general Monday morning gripe.

He also criticized the Washington Coliseum, where he once lost his hat; Constitution Hall, where he almost always loses his audience; Dulles International Airport, where he lost his temper over the phone service, and the nonexistent Cultural Center, which is just plain lost.

But the senator's gripe has done some good. At that. It has inspired the idea that what this country really needs is a World Series cellar championship to be fought out this year between the National League's New York Mets and Washington's own beloved bums of the American League.

They ought to be able to fill the D.C. Stadium at fantastic box office prices with an exhibition like that. It would be a lot more fun than listening to Humphrey make speeches.

It should be a benefit performance with all profits above the players' share going to some worthy cause. And what cause could be worthier than the hard-up Cultural Center Fund?

AN EXHIBITION GAME between the Mets and the Senators would be a cultural event of the first magnitude. Casey Stengel would be there, wouldn't he? And ain't he cultured?

If the State Department's cultural affairs division really wants to show American culture at its best around the world, it ought to keep the American ballet and those puppets at home and send good, old Casey. Gif Hodges could go along as straight man.

One game between these two teams ought to be enough to decide which is really the cellar champ. But if New York wants in for the benefit of its Cultural Center of the Performing Arts, we could make it a series.

It might even be suggested that the team which loses, wins. The game could be scored with every hit counted as an error and every error counted as a hit. Give every man four strikes before calling him out, and let every batter who gets three balls walk to first.

Humphrey might be invited to throw out the first ball. But don't let him pitch. Humphrey is supposed to pitch in the Senate, only there they call him the whip. This year, he hasn't been whipping them across the plate with much success.

REPUBLICAN SEN. Jacob K. Javits of New York—home of the Mets, by the way—called the score on Humphrey and his Democratic teammates the other day by pointing out that here it is August and only four major league bills have been passed by the "standstill Congress."

Even the Mets and the Senators—the ball clubs—have been doing better than that. They haven't been standing still. Both have been moving steadily (down hill, that is), till they are some 30 games behind their league leaders.

This prompts the thought that maybe the ball players ought to work out in the Senate while the lawmakers are sent to the stadium to cut the grass and roll the diamond.

Or we could send all of 'em back to the minors where they came from!

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I wonder how many mothers are in the same boat.

I have knocked myself out for 15 years trying to please my children. But no matter what I do, it's never enough. There must be a sign on my back saying, "Kick me."

I get up at 6:30 every morning to prepare breakfast for my teenagers. All I get is complaints. "The milk is too warm. Did you leave it out all night? The cantaloup is soggy. The cereal is runny. The eggs are too hard."

When I leave a meeting early to pick them up at the club (for the 50th time this summer) I get a sour look and a "Where have you been, anyway? We've been waiting five minutes."

How did the children of today get the upper hand? My teenagers make me feel like an employee. I find myself always striving to please — and never quite making the grade. Please tell me where I got off the track. — MOTHER, 1963 MODEL.

Dear Mother: Children are not born with "the upper hand." It is given to them — given by parents who don't have the courage to establish the rules for the family. This is called DISCIPLINE. And when rules of behavior are worked out equitably and seasoned with love, discipline produces respectful, well-adjusted children.

Teen-age tyranny is not new, but it is vastly more prevalent than it used to be. This is what Henry James wrote 81 years ago in "Point of View":

"There is nothing in America but young people. The country is made for the rising generation; life is arranged for them; they are the destruction of society."

"People talk of them, consider them, defer to them, bow down to them. They are always present and whenever they are present there is an end to everything else. And by children, I don't mean wimple infants, I mean anything less than 20."

Birds of a Feather?

Dear Ann: My husband's boss is a man in his late 40s. He has an oily, egotistical manner which offends me.

This man has a wife and three children, but you'd never know it the way he carries on. His current romance is a shapely redhead who works in the cost accounting department and who is at least 20 years younger than he is. She drives his car all over town and she's been wearing some mighty expensive clothes lately.

The problem is this: My husband has been staying downtown about three evenings a week — having dinner with this couple. I don't like it and have said so. My husband says the boss is three times seven and what he does is his own business! I say birds of a feather flock together and I don't want anyone to get funny idea about my husband. Who is right? — MRS. WHY INVITE GOSSIP?

Dear Mrs. Why: When your husband pals around with this pair he gives tacit approval to the whole shoddy business. A married man should be at home having dinner with his family — not acting as cover for philandering friends.

Annulment Question

Dear Ann: I was married for one year and recently had the marriage annulled legally and in my church as well. How do I go about announcing the news? Shall I see if I can have it published in the newspaper? Shall I send out engraved announcements in the mail?

Is it proper to keep the name Mrs. John Doe? Or shall I go back to Miss Mary Smith? I have a child. Please advise me. None of my friends knows the answers. — LOAD OFF MY SHOULDERS.

Dear Load: You do not announce an annulment. Your family and friends will get the word soon enough, if they don't already know.

Since you have a child you should not be "Miss" anybody. You could make it Mrs. Mary Doe, however. Then if John remarries you won't be getting his wife's telephone calls and her department store bills.

Parents' Problem

Dear Ann: This is a problem that I'll bet many parents are faced with during summer vacation. Can you help?

Our daughter, Arleen, has been invited by my sister-in-law to spend four weeks with them out in Montana. Arleen is 16, and a good little cook and housekeeper. My sister-in-law said in her letter they would expect Arleen to "pitch in" with the household chores and to help with the children.

Now to problem. Do you feel that we should continue to give Arleen her allowance while she is on vacation? Or should my sister-in-law give her an allowance for helping with the chores?

My husband says one thing and I say another. What do you say, Ann Landers? — SPLIT DECISION.

Dear Split: By all means you should continue to give Arleen her allowance while she is on vacation. It would be unthinkable to suggest that a house guest be paid for pitching in. Arleen is your responsibility whether she's at home or vacationing.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

History Today

Today is Monday, Aug. 12, the 224th day of 1963. There are 141 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1676 Indian King Philip—chief of the Wampanoags — was shot to death at Mount Hope, R.I., by a renegade of his own tribe. His death ended the first great war of a confederacy of Indians against white settlers of that sector.

On this date

In 1806, enraged citizens of Buenos Aires, Argentina, drove out a landing force of 1,200 British troops.

In 1916, the War Department ordered the National Guard to the Mexican border.

In 1933, Gen. Italo Balbo's aerial squadron returned to Italy after a flight to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

In 1948, a Russian teacher, Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina, leaped from the Soviet consulate in New York City to avoid deportation to her homeland.

Ten years ago . . . Strikes in France spread to private industry when Premier Joseph Laniel refused to modify economic reforms ordered by his cabinet.

Five years ago . . . The submarine Skate became the second U.S. nuclear-powered submarine to sail under the North Pole.

One year ago . . . Russia's fourth astronaut, Lt. Col. Paoel Popovich, was sent into a nearly identical orbit with that of Maj. Andrian Nikolayev, whose launching occurred a day earlier.

Night School Now In 33rd Year

Registration to Begin For Local Trades Class

For the 33rd year the doors of the Salem Trade Extension School will swing open this month to admit more than 400 adult students training by night to increase their skills and wage potentiality.

Vocational supervisor Holland W. Cameron announced today that registration will begin Tuesday for all but the commercial course, with the first classes scheduled to begin Aug. 20. Three days have been set aside for sign-up; Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m.; Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.; and Saturday from 8 to 10 a.m. at the trade extension offices at the rear of the senior high school.

Courses Offered
Eight courses are offered under the program, largest and oldest of its kind in Ohio. Four year courses include drafting, machine trades, electronics, auto mechanics, industrial electricity and body and fender repair. The commercial course and data processing are two-year courses.

Students in drafting and machine trades attend two nights a week for the first two years and once a week for the last two years. Others attend classes once a week throughout the course. Here are thumbnail sketches of the courses' contents:

DRAFTING: Basic and advanced engineering drawing; engineering mathematics; strength of materials; machine trades: mathematics, blueprint reading, machine tool operation; electronics: operation, testing, installation, trouble shooting and maintenance of both home and commercial electronic apparatuses auto mechanics: training in all phases of gasoline engine automotive maintenance and repairs.

COMMERCIAL: Typing I and II Shorthand I and II, business machines; industrial electricity: electrical theory, layout installation, testing, and repair of wiring, fixtures, apparatus and equipment; body and fender repair: the proper technique and application in the repairing of auto body and fender; data processing: accumulating data from various departments in industry and translating such data for the accounting department.

All courses except the commercial cost $20 a year. Tuition for the commercial course is $30 which has been raised due to the increased demand. Enrollment in this course is limited by number of typewriters and other office machines available.

Cameron said the enrollment of the trades classes last year was about 420. An even higher enrollment is anticipated for the coming terms.

While all other similar trades classes in Ohio declined in enrollment in 1962-63 Salem's rose about 10 per cent.

The program, sponsored by the Salem Board of Education, local industries and the State Department of Education, began in 1930.

Mrs. David K. Ramsey

Miriam Smith Is Wed To David K. Ramsey

The First Methodist Church of Salem was the scene Saturday of the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Miriam Rae Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith of 990 N. Ellsworth Ave., and David Kenneth Ramsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Ramsey of RD 4, Alliance.

The altar of the church was decorated with two baskets and two vases of white arrangements, palms and candelabra. Twelve pew bows completed the decor for the 2:30 p.m. service. Rev. William Longworth of the First Methodist Church was assisted by Rev. Richard Borngen of the Bethel United Church of Christ at Beloit, where the groom is a member, in the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Trina Loria was soloist and Homer Taylor was organist. The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a white gown of silk organza and lace applique with a scoop neckline edged in lace and seed pearls. The full bouffant skirt decorated with lace applique trim, ended in a train. The sleeves buttoned at the wrist. Her full bouffant veil of imported silk illusion was held by a double queen's crown of lace and seed pearl. She also wore a pearl star pendant, a gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Edward Votaw, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a street-length gown of white lace and pink peau taffeta. The dress had a lace bodice, scoop neckline, bracelet sleeves and a bow at the back waistline. Her headpiece was a cabbage rose with pearl trim and a circular veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations with pink rosebuds.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Edward Toot, Mrs. Vernon Souders of Niles and Miss Loretta Piscitani, who wore dresses similar to that of the matron of honor. Miss Shawn Votaw, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and wore a full organza dress of pink taffeta.

William Wendell of Willoughby was best man. Ushers were Kenneth Smith of Marion, brother of the bride, James Ramsey of Beloit, brother of the groom, and David Mainwaring of Alliance. Junior usher was Steve Votaw, nephew of the bride.

Mrs. Smith was attired in a loden green cotton sheath dress accented with eyelet embroidery and matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink and white carnations. A peppermint pink embroidered cotton sheath dress with matching accessories was worn by the mother of the groom who also had a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Reception Follows
Mrs. Kenneth Smith registered the guests at the reception which followed in Fellowship Hall of the church. The bridal table was centered with a four-tier white wedding cake trimmed in pink with paper pink carnations, white wedding bells and ivy. Serving were Mrs. James Ramsey and Mrs. Harry Maenz.

The Virginian Restaurant in Alliance was the site of the rehearsal dinner given Friday by Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Ramsey.

The bride, a graduate of Salem High School and Canton Aulman Hospital School of Nursing, is a registered nurse at the Salem Central Clinic and Hospital. Her husband, a graduate of Goshen High School and Kent State University, where he was affiliated with Theta Chi social fraternity, is a teacher at Sebring.

For her honeymoon trip to Virginia Beach, Va., the new Mrs. Ramsey wore a pink tulle dress with white embroidered flowers, white accessories and a white rose corsage. The couple will reside at 327 Fair Ave.

Mrs. Fred E. Weingart

Judith Dustman Bride Of Fred E. Weingard

A Sunday afternoon ceremony at Holy Trinity English Lutheran Church united in marriage Miss Judith Ann Dustman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Dustman of RD 5, Salem, and Fred Eugene Weingart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Weingart of RD 4, Salem.

Rev. Paul Korntheuer of the Washingtonville Lutheran Church officiated for the double-ring ceremony which took place at 2:30 p.m. The altar was decorated with vases of chrysanthemums and gladioli, palms and ferns and candelabra. White pew bows marked the aisles.

Organist was Miss Bonnie Minth.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace with nylon tulle with long sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Its Sabrina neckline was trimmed in seed pearls and sequins. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a double queen's crown. A cascade of carnations with daisy pompons and a small bunch of stephanotis had an ivy streamer trailing the full length of her gown.

Miss Helen Madden was maid of honor. She wore a blue lace sheath dress with an overskirt, matching accessories and a blue picture hat. She carried a cascade of pink and blue carnations with yellow pompons trimmed in pink ribbon and lace with ivy streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Marian Unger of RD 1, Leetonia, and Mrs. Glen Gallo of Lisbon, and Miss Connie Dustman, sister of the bride. Their outfits were similar to that worn by the maid of honor with smaller cascades of pink and blue carnations and yellow pompons trimmed in yellow net and ribbon with ivy streamers. Their picture hats were of a lighter shade of blue.

Gerald Mincks was best man. Ushers were Fred Stanley of North Benton and Frank D. Dustman, Jr., brother of the bride. Junior usher was Tom Weingart, brother of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding,

Kensington
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Duvall are vacationing in Cincinnati and Kentucky, visiting his mother, Mrs. Rose Duvall.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Beall and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Stewart of Cleveland and Nora Roach were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kibler.

LADIES AID SOCIETY of the Christian Church met in the annex Thursday with 18 members and one visitor present. Lois Kibler was hostess. Tillie Swearingen had devotionals and contests which were won by Evelyn Lautzenheiser and Betty McCarnes. Next hostess will be Mary Joe Allman.

Mrs. Harry Dorr is home from the hospital and doing well. A bridal shower was given recently for Miss Eileen McGhee who was married Aug. 2 in the Christian Church.

Mrs. Helen Haynam called on her mother Thursday.

MR. AND MRS. W. M. Hazlett of Alliance called on their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Boals Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Orsborn have returned home after a few days vacation.

Lawrence Mehnert, who underwent surgery in the Alliance City Hospital is improving slowly.

Miss Irene Whinnery of Salem called on her mother Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Beall visited with Mr. and Mrs. Perry Miller of RD. Minerva Wednesday.

Mrs. Dustman wore a dress of light pink lace over a cotton sheath and matching white accessories. Her corsage was of baby white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Weingart was attired in a beige and white dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Elden Helmick registered the guests who attended the reception following the ceremony in the church social hall. A five-tier cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was centered on the bride's table which was covered in blue lace net over white brought up in scallops accented with carnations. Bakers fern were placed around the cake. Candles and flowers completed the decor.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Orville Burkey of Columbiana, aunt of the bride, Mrs. George Zohnd of Columbiana, cousin of the bride, Mrs. James Berger of Salem sister of the groom, and Mrs. Duane Weingart of Salem, sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Weingart entertained Saturday with a rehearsal dinner at the Coffee Cup.

The bridegroom gave the ushers and best man black ties. The bride gave her attendants matching pearl and crystal necklaces.

For her honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a blue taffeta ensemble and carried a flower from her wedding bouquet.

The new Mrs. Weingart, a graduate of Leetonia High School, is employed as an IBM proof operator at the First National bank. Her husband, a graduate of Goshen High School, is a carpenter with the Weingart Brothers.

The couple will be at home at 361 N. Broadway upon their return.

Mrs. William C. Reich

Judith Schaeffer Wed To William C. Reich

Nuptial vows were exchanged at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the First Christian Church in Salem by Judith Ann Schaeffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Schaeffer of East Palestine, and William C. Reich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reich of 762 E. 4th St.

Rev. Harold W. Deitch officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The altar was decorated with two seven-branch candelabra and two altar vases filled with white gladioli, pompons and blue carnations. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Miss Theresa Viola of Salem sang several nuptial selections and Mrs. Ruth Berry of Salem was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of silk organza over taffeta. Its fitted bodice had a modified scoop neckline enhanced by re-embroidered Alencon lace. The same lace motifs were on the front of the bouffant scissor skirt which had a softly pleated back ending in a sweeping chapel train. Silk illusion veiling was attached to a matching Alencon lace cap trimmed with seed pearls and crystal tips. She carried her Eastern Star Bible topped with white roses, stephanotis and ivy streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Judy Durham, cousin of the bride, who wore a dress of cornflower blue French embroidery on white cotton with a fitted bodice, short sleeves, a scoop neckline and full bell skirt. The dress had a white silk organza cummerbund and back streamers.

Miss Gayle Parker and Miss Jacqueline Hippley were bridesmaids and wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. All three attendants wore picture hats of blue silk braid with daisies and carried colonial baskets of blue and white carnations and white pompons.

Flower girl was Linda Seagle of East Palestine who wore a dress of cornflower blue nylon embroidered in white with a white satin bow and streamers. Her headpiece was of white nylon rucking with miniature blue and white flowers. She carried a miniature basket of flowers similar to those of the bridesmaids.

Robert R. Reich of Pittsburgh, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Gene Woodard of Ashland and Richard Scaife of Ada, fraternity brothers of the bridegroom, and Richard Carnahan and James McConnor of Salem.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Schaeffer wore a dress of imported embroidered beige linen an a corsage of orange delight roses. Mrs. Reich was attired in a pink linen dress embroidered in white and a corsage of white roses.

Register the Guests
Miss Brenda Smith and Miss Mary Lou Longworth registered the 200 guests who attended the reception which followed the ceremony in the church social hall.

Out-of-state guests were present from New York, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Georgia.

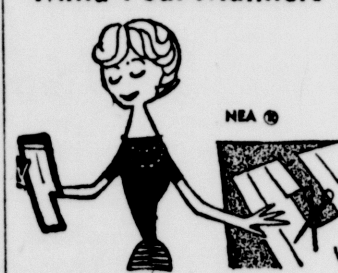

The serving table was covered with cornflower blue taffeta with a white nylon net overskirt. The front of the table was draped with white satin ribbon and bows. Centering the bride's table was a three-tier wedding cake, decorated with blue rosettes and topped with a cluster of blue tinted wedding bells. Silver and crystal appointments were used throughout the table decorations.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. James T. Schaeffer, Mrs. Grady Durham and Mrs. Nick Spano of Salem, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Frank Thompson of East Palestine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Raymond Reich were hosts at a rehearsal dinner Friday at the Lape Hotel. For her honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a dress of white floral whipped cream fabric with white linen accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The new Mrs. Reich, a graduate of Salem High School, is employed by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. as an operator. Formerly employed by the Salem branch, she has transferred to the branch in Findlay. Her husband, also a graduate of Salem High School, is a junior in pharmacy at Ohio Northern University where he is affiliated with Alpha Sigma Phi social fraternity. He is employed at Gray's drug store in Findlay. The couple will reside at 532½ S. Main St., Apt. 320, in Findlay.

Mrs. Paul John Hannay

Scullion-Hannay Rite Saturday Church Event

The altar of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church was decorated with white vases of white gladioli and chrysanthemums, scheflera and grape ivy foliage for the ceremony Saturday uniting in marriage Sarah Eileen Scullion, daughter of William J. Scullion of 445 E. 7th St. and the late Mrs. Scullion, and Paul John Hannay, son of Mrs. Katherine Hannay of 213 Ohio Ave. and Ray Hannay of North Hollywood, Calif.

Sprays of similax tied with white satin bows marked the pews for the 11 a.m. double-ring ceremony. Rev. J. Richard Gaffney officiated.

Mrs. Eugene Hergenrother and Mrs. Francis D. McNicol, soloists, sang several nuptial selections. Organist was Mrs. Leon Kuniewicz.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full princess gown of peau de soie with a scalloped neckline framed in pearl and sequin re-embroidered Alencon lace lavishly applied to the bodice and skirt. Sculptured roses at the center of the back accented a flowing chapel train. A princess crown of Alencon lace entwined with pearls and accented with crystal droplets held her veil of double illusion. She carried a white prayer book with an arrangement of stephanotis, ivy and snowdrift pompoms.

Matron of honor was Mrs. James P. Luli of Kent, sister of the bride who wore a gown of aqua taffeta with floating panels in the front and back over an embossed taffeta floor-length sheath underskirt. Her headpiece was an aqua Dior bow of matching fabric holding circlets of illusion. She carried a colonial nosegay of yellow pompoms.

James P. Luli of Kent, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man. Ushers were William J. Scullion, Jr., brother of the bride, and Ronnie Hannay, brother of the groom.

For her son's marriage Mrs. Hannay wore a beige dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Reception Follows

A buffet reception which followed the ceremony at St. Paul's School was attended by 250 guests from Columbus, Dayton, Cleveland, Youngstown, Pennsylvania and California. Mrs. Francis D. McNicol registered the guests.

The serving table was decorated with a four-tier cake topped with a pearl bell ornament and surrounded by ivy, pompoms, scheflera and grape ivy. Arrangements of lemon leaves and gladioli were placed on individual guest tables.

Serving at the reception were former college classmates of the bride, Mrs. James Denny and Mrs. Duane Mosure of Dayton, Mrs. Don Eggman of Columbus, Miss Mary Ann Winfield of Grove City and Mrs. Jack Manning of Mentor - on - the - Lake. Bob Nebeth's orchestra provided the music.

A rehearsal dinner was given Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garlock of Southeast Blvd. with Mrs. Katherine Hannay as hostess.

The new Mrs. Hannay, a graduate of Salem High School and the College of St. Mary of the Springs, taught first grade at 4th St. School and will teach at Kilgour School in Cincinnati in the fall. Her husband, also a graduate of Salem High School, attended Youngstown University and will continue his education at the School of Mortuary Science in Cincinnati. He is employed at the Stark Memorial.

Beverly Bock Is Bride In Columbiana Ceremony

when the wedding vows of Beverly Faith Bock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hively of 737 Fairfield Ave., Columbiana, and Thomas Eugene Quaintance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Quaintance of Marion, were spoken at a double-ring ceremony at 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

The altar of the Jerusalem Lutheran Church in Columbiana was decorated with altar vases of white snapdragons, mums and emerald foliage, palms, ferns and seven-branch candelabra for the event. The aisle was marked with floral bows.

Jerry Maddox of Marion was organist.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a full-length gown of organza with a basque bodice fashioned with a shallow scoop neckline accented with a double row of tiny pearls. Silk embroidery adorned the bodice and was also worked on the full-length sleeves that tapered into points. The bouffant skirt had a panel of embroidery in the center front and a full-length panel in the back that carried on the chapel train. A Swedish crown of tiny pearls held her short veil of bridal illusion. She carried a bride's cascade of white glamelias and white mums.

Miss Peg Hively of Columbus, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a yellow organza dress with trim, balloon sleeves, a scooped neckline and full skirt. Her matching satin petal headpiece held a shadow veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of aqua daisies with white glamelias.

Bridesmaid was Miss Patricia Quaintance of Marion, sister of the groom, who wore a dress of aqua organza similar to that worn by the maid of honor. Miss Susan Quaintance of Marion, sister of the groom, was junior bridesmaid and wore an aqua dress identical to that of the bridesmaid. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow daisies and white glamelias.

Charles Robinson of Columbus, college classmate of the groom, was best man. Ushers were William Lindsay of East Palestine, John Quaintance, brother of the groom, and Charles Simmons of Lincoln Park, Mich.

Mrs. Hively was attired in a pink crepe sheath dress with a matching pillbox hat. She wore a corsage of white glamelias. Mrs. Quaintance chose an aqua embroidered crepe sheath dress and also wore a corsage of white glamelias.

200 at Reception

Luther Hall of the church was the scene of the reception which followed the ceremony. Mrs. Dean Witmer of Columbiana, cousin of the bride, registered the 200 guests, including out - of - town guests from Lincoln Park, Mich., Pittsburgh and Beaver Falls Pa., and Dayton Sandusky, Columbus, Marion, Rocky River, Greensburg and Ravenna.

A four-tier wedding cake, centered on the bride's table, was adorned with aqua and yellow rosebuds and surrounded by sprengeri ferns, white daisies and white candles. Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Willis Kibler, cousin of the bride. Mrs. Ray Rosenthal of Columbus and Mrs. Charles Simmons of Lincoln Park, Mich., former college roommates of the bride, poured. Mrs. Henry Todd cut the cake, assisted by Mrs. LaMont Merreot of Columbiana. Both are cousins of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Quaintance entertained 22 guests at a rehearsal dinner Friday at Heck's Restaurant in Columbiana which was decorated with white candles and a floral centerpiece.

The bride wore a brown dacron dress with pink accessories for her honeymoon trip.

The new Mrs. Quaintance, a graduate of Columbiana High School, received her bachelor of arts degree from Capital University in 1962 and is a parish worker at Salem Lutheran Church in Dayton. Her husband, a graduate of Marion Harding High School, is a student in the college of science at Capital University.

The couple will reside at 1754 E. Livingston Ave., Columbus.

Matter of Fact

Ice is the solid form of water. Although practically colorless, ice often appears white as a result of imbedded air bubbles, and in large masses such as glaciers it takes on a blue or green tinge. Eighty-seven per cent of the earth's ice formations lie on the Antarctic continent.

The razor, used for shaving since earliest times, was not really much changed until the 19th century. Then the process of hollowing the sides of the blade by grinding gave it more flexibility, facilitated sharpening and improved the cutting edge.

A "reeve" is a bailiff, steward or business agent. In early English history, the reeve was entrusted with administration of a division of a county. The name survives in Canada for the president of a village or town council.

OUTLASTS HIS IMAGE — Seneca Indian Chief Big Tree, 98, left, is still very much in circulation, which is more than can be said for the now-scarce Indian head nickel. Big Tree posed for his profile's likeness on the coin, way back in 1914.

JUST PLANE PIGGY-BACKING — Piggy-backing the big jets on a self-propelled vehicle, foreground, would result in substantial fuel and engine maintenance savings. So says engineer Roy P. Gibbens, in a report made before the International Conference on Aerospace Support, in Washington. Gibbens' patented vehicle could carry loaded jet at 20 m.p.h. or more as compared to the 5 m.p.h. at which tow tractors are able to handle the job.

Motorist Cited Following Mishap

LISBON — Cornelius D. Thomas 62, East Liverpool RD 2, was cited for failing to stop in the assured clear distance following a collision of two cars on W. Lincoln Way Sunday at 8:15 p.m., police reported.

Thomas struck a car driven by McKinley M. Jarvis, 33, of Alliance, which had stopped for a stop light.

Karen Jarvis 20, and Bernice Stockli were taken to Salem City Hospital after they complained of neck pains. They were treated and released.

Thomas' wife fainted after he went to a local service station to get his brakes repaired, and she was taken to the East Liverpool Hospital, police said.

Robert J. Tullis, 44, of Columbiana forfeited a $10 bond Sunday in Mayor Dean Stockman's court when he failed to appear on charges of improper backing. He was cited Saturday at 7:45 p.m. on E. Lincoln Way after he backed into a car owned by Eugene C. Davis, Jeromesville.

Beaver Local Boosters Set Meeting Tuesday

New coaches will be special guests when Beaver Local Booster Club holds its first meeting of the season at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Beaver Local High School. The event will be a covered dinner. Members are to bring a covered dish, meat dish and their own table service. Coffee, rolls and beverages for the children will be furnished by the club.

A representative of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company will show a film on "Telstar."

All Booster Club members are urged to attend along with parents of children who will be participating in sports this fall and board members. A special invitation has been issued to persons running for school board this fall.

Fairfield Ruritans Serve Lunch to 700

Members of the Fairfield Ruritan Club and their wives served a noon luncheon Saturday to about 700 persons at Firestone Farms near Columbiana.

Luncheon guests were Firestone Stores' June and July sales winners, store managers and their wives from every state in the nation.

The Firestone personnel were taken on tours of the Akron Firestone Rubber Co. and other Akron points of interest Thursday, and Saturday night were dinner-dance guests of Richard Firestone at his home, Laura Farms, Akron.

Repairing Piece of Furniture Sometimes Not Worth Effort

To repair or not to repair a piece of furniture is a dilemma faced by many people. Is it worth the effort, they want to know. And how do you judge whether it is worth the time and trouble before you invest?

If the object is a loved piece of furniture such as an old favorite rocking chair, family heirloom or one that recalls happy memories and associations, the expense and effort should be well worth it. But one shouldn't put $300 worth of labor into something bought for $20, just to prove he's got a bargain, unless the piece when finished is worth $320 to him. Value your own time when appraising the worth of an item to be repaired.

A RARE "FIND" IS another matter. It could be that you would work for a year and put in hundreds of hours of spare time to repair a beautiful piece of furniture, matching veneers or inlay or applying authentic decorative design meticulously in a labor of love. This is an object you can exhibit with personal pride at the finish.

The most careful buyer makes an occasional impulsive purchase that he must judge eventually as having been foolhardy. He should then settle for being out of pocket, reselling the article at the earliest opportunity even at a loss, if owning it causes him mental anguish.

A CASE IN POINT is that of a young couple in a tiny house who found a good-size Directoire secretary, that must have been a gem in other days. The inlay that is intact is lovely, but much of it is missing, along with so many other pieces — drawer fronts, hardware, rails — that it would be an enormous undertaking for an amateur cabinet worker. The desk section is fairly well intact with its narrow drawers, but sides and back of the piece are badly discolored and slightly warped, and because of the inlay requires tremendous work. THE HUSBAND REALIZED he was licked when he took a good long look at it (which he should have done before buying it). His wife wants to make the best of it, putting it in the bedroom with whatever repairs they can make themselves making it useable. The husband realistically refused. But now the piece is in their basement where it will no doubt deteriorate. It should be sold even at a loss to someone who has the time and experience to make the repairs.

Anytime one buys an old piece of furniture with the idea of repairing it, he should be fairly well aware of how missing essential pieces may be located and have some basic knowledge of how to put the missing parts together. An old piece can be a good purchase, providing one has the time, money and materials to make repairs. It is frustrating when one doesn't.

SOME PEOPLE FORGET to figure the cost of materials when estimating expenditures necessary in making repairs. Warped pieces may require clamps. Decoration can be a costly item if gold leaf or many colors must be used. Authentic reproductions of hardware can bring the cost of a good-size piece of furniture up considerably. It is worthwhile if you have a treasure when finished, but often it would have been cheaper to buy a good piece in the beginning.

One man, who bought a severely damaged Boston rocker for $15, could have got one in good condition at the same sale for $27. But the enjoyment he had in re-finishing the piece was worth the trouble.

Attitude is something that must be taken into consideration when making a decision too, and that can be evaluated only by the interested party. Never buy anything that needs to be repaired if you feel wishy-washy about doing it.

FORWARD SET living room allows windows on two sides and sliding doors on a third side, opening on a private porch. The dining room and the kitchen also open on this porch. The third bedroom, near the foyer, can be used instead as an office and a door can open into the foyer. The living room wall along the front porch, from the fireplace, is brick and projects into the foyer. Other exterior materials are brick veneer and V groove vertical boards. Architect for HA303M is Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 32, N.Y. The plan includes 1,540 square feet of living space.

Outdoor Lighting Extends Use of Recreation Areas

If you've gone to a great deal of work and trouble to make the outdoors more livable, make your efforts really worth-while by making the area usable after sundown.

You'll need adequate lighting, which is more than just a light fixture on a long extension cord. Remember that more than just pleasure and utility are involved in outdoor lighting. There is the important factor of safety as well.

Light paths, drives and steps. Paths that are used often should have priority when you install lights. Steps are more important than drives, but don't ignore the latter either.

Frequently used areas close to the house should be lighted. Stepping from a brightly lighted interior to a black exterior is dangerous because your eyes adjust slowly under such conditions.

Is your paving dark? Plan for more light than you would if it were light-colored.

MAKE A DIAGRAM of your yard, marking off areas that are used frequently. Check paths and drives after dark to see which need light most and which can take advantage of other lights, such as street lights.

Plan to install your lights either well above the ground or close to the ground. Do not install them at eye level. The glare will make them useless.

High lights can be 10 to 20 feet above ground level. Use flood-lamps or bulbs in flood reflectors so that large areas are lighted. Arrange them so that large areas overlap. Use weatherproof sockets. If you use floodlamp, get sockets made with weather resistant glass.

FLOOD LIGHTS CAN be mounted on the sides of buildings, on posts or even in trees, but with proper safety measures.

Low lights can be placed right at ground level using a waterproof fixture with a socket and a reflector, plain or decorative, to focus the light. They can be mounted low along a building wall or along a low fence rail.

Use ground level lights to illuminate steps and narrow paths. MOST LOCAL CODES permit burial of special underground cable. However, it's best to check first. You will have to enclose the cable in conduit where it enters and leaves the ground.

If you string some wire overhead, keep it at least 8 feet high and support it every 15 feet. Again use weatherproof wire and fixtures.

If you don't have an outdoor outlet already, you will have to take care of this first. Have an electrician install a separately fused circuit for outdoor use.

Cable is then run from this, then through the wall in metal conduit to a weatherproof splice box. From this you can run more conduit for either underground or overhead circuits.

Shade Trees Are Valuable, Here's the Answer Require Proper Attention

Shade trees are valuable, but neglect can turn them into nothing better than firewood.

Almost every homeowner can give the trees on his property the attention they deserve. A few tools will be needed — mostly for pruning — and a little know-how. Pruning can be done in the fall or early spring. Repairing damaged bark should be done as quickly as possible.

If you have grass growing right up to your trees, their surfaces may be damaged by careless handling of the mower. Youngsters sometimes peel off bark, or young animals may gnaw on it.

USE A SHARP CHISEL and a mallet to cut away the damaged portions. Use the mallet gently. Don't cut too deep.

Coat the surface with a wound dressing. You can use asphalt paint or you can buy a special preparation at most nurseries.

The purpose is to protect the surface from the weather. A ny coating that will not injure living tissue will do. This rules out creosote and similar preservatives.

Follow up by painting the area again every six months. Decay is a long-time process and a wound may take several years to heal.

YOUNG TREES WITH a tender bark are particularly tempting to small animals. Protect the lower part of the tree by wrapping it with a wire mesh. If you extend the mesh about six inches below the ground you can stop the animals from burrowing. Pruning is necessary for several reasons: For example, decayed or broken limbs are a menace and overcrowding growth destroys the health of trees.

You can probably prune small trees yourself and maybe even the lower portions of larger trees. For the topping and thinning of large trees, always call in a professional arborist.

(BEFORE YOU DO, MAKE certain the tree isn't the responsibility of the city, as is often the case when it is on the tree lawn.) You'll find that an ordinary hand saw won't do. Get a 24-inch pruning saw. It has five or six teeth to an inch and a wide enough set so that it won't bind.

A smaller tool, the 12-inch orchard saw, has a curved blade, works on the pull instead of the push stroke.

A POLE SAW IS SIMILAR but is fixed to the end of long pole. With it you can remove small limbs beyond your reach. There are also pole shears which are worked by pulling on a long rope. Lopping shears can handle a limb up to 1½ inches in diameter.

Cut away low hanging branches (with the exception of evergreens) and fresh leaves and shoots that sprout low on the trunk. Remove limbs that rub. Cut a limb close to its base so that it will heal easily.

Keep pruning tools sharp so that there will be no bruising or tearing.

QUESTION: We have moved into an old house and find that there are many openings around the bathtub, the corners and at the floor joints. These openings are at places where there are wall tiles. Some of the tiles are loose, although still clinging to the wall. Appreciate your advice on how to fill these spaces to prevent damage from water.

ANSWER: The openings around the top of the bathtub and at corners and floor joints should be sealed with a waterproof plastic or other type of caulking compound. There are many good brands on the market for this specific purpose.

The compound is applied directly from the tube by maintaining a steady pressure while it is being guided along a joint. Let the compound set for 10 or 15 minutes, then smooth it out with a wooden stick of the type used in ice cream pops or supplied with containers of coffee or other beverages. The tiles can be re-set by applying a special tile cement.

Old Dutch Knocks Off Stepanic's For District Title

Triumphs 7-3 At Kelly Park

Youngpeter Clouts
3-Run Homer In 5th

Old Dutch earned the right to compete in the Class AA State Softball Tournament as it knocked off Stepanic's 7-3 in the district finals at Kelly Field Saturday night.

Dick Youngpeter's three-run homer sewed it up in the fifth. The losers outlived the winners 9-15 but committed seven errors.

Stepanic's entered the tourney as the host team and reached the finals in the double elimination event by blanking the Carroll County All-Stars 2-0.

The new champs wasted little time as they picked up two runs in the first inning. Bruce Feicht led off with a single and advanced to second on an error. He moved up to third on a sacrifice. Dick Youngpeter reached base on an error, scoring Feicht. He also scored home.

Feicht and Bill Ferguson hit back-to-back singles leading off in the fifth. Youngpeter then blasted his home run.

A walk, an error, fielder's choice and a single by Dave Drakulich gave Stepanic's a run in the bottom half of the first. The losers collected two more in the sixth on a walk, two fielders' choices, three singles and a double by Jack Jackson.

Drakulich, Dick Andrie and Carson McNeely each had two hits for Stepanic's.

In the semi-final tilt, Stepanic's took a 1-0 lead against the All-Stars in the fourth on a single by Andrie, a sacrifice and a single by Ken Wood.

George Begalla led off the seventh with a triple and scored on a single by Wood. McNeely then connected for a single, but the next three batters were easy outs to end the threat.

Pitcher Jim Stonemetz scattered four singles. He walked only one batter and struck out four. Don Fife, who was the ironman for the All-Stars during the tourney, was the losing hurler.

Larry Burwell collected two of the losers' four hits. Wood paced the winners with two hits.

Class F Stars Chosen For Sunday's Tilt

The American and National League Class F All-Stars have been chosen and will meet in a contest at Kelley Field under the lights Sunday at 7:30.

Players who will represent the American bracket are John P. Tolson, Scott Thomson, Tom Bica and George Christofaris of Elks; Farb Tinsley, Rick Metts, Chuck Montgomery and Bill Smith of Eljer; Donald Whitehill, Charles Drakulich, John Bricker and William Karnofel of Farmers Bank; Rick Jones, Rick Hackett, Lou Markovich and Dick Walker of Fishers News.

Bill Galechik will manage the group. His assistants are George Thomson, Eddie Eskay, Joe Skrivaneck and Frank Coy.

Representing the National division are Bill Rist, Harry Owens, Mike Palmer and Gary Dicker, hoff of Sekelys; Randy Martz, Phil Shasteen, Tod Chappell and Don Wolfgang of Shaffer Ford; Brook Scott, Gary Schuster, Bob Briskin and Larry Kibler of Mullins; Richard Thomas, Walter Hunson, Robert Wagner and Joe Maxim of Electric Furnace.

Managing the unit is Ray Wright. His coaches are Les Brantingham, Clark Tolson and John McQuiston.

The two units are to hold a practice at Memorial Park today beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Stoddard Finishes 4th In Junior Champ Meet

Garry Stoddard finished fourth in the 440-yard dash in the National Junior Champ track and field meet held at St. Paul, Minn., over the weekend.

He was beaten out for third place by one tenth of a second. His time was 56.6. The winner, Don Woosley of Monona Grove, Wis., was clocked in 53.1.

Boys from Minnesota won the 200-yard dash with 21 points, Wisconsin, 17; Ohio, 15; Iowa, 14 and Illinois 5 competed.

City A Softball Playoff To Start

The City Softball League Class A playoff will get under way at Kelley Field Tuesday night.

Moose will take on Bliss at 7 in the bid-lifter and Gold Bar goes against Cranston at 8:30.

U.S. Swim Squad Will Face Japan

CHICAGO (AP)—A U.S. national swimming and diving contingent, having captured nearly all the titles in the national AAU championships which ended Sunday, heads for a tour of Japan this week.

The squad of 16 swimmers and diver Larry Andrasen will arrive in Japan, scene of the 1964 Olympics, Tuesday to compete against a Japanese team for two weeks.

With the exception of Tom Stock and Ted Stickle, both of the powerful Indianapolis Athletic Club, every swimmer winning an AAU title in Oak Park over the weekend is represented in the touring team coached by Ralph Casey of Southern Illinois University and managed by Ken Treadway of Bartlesville, Okla.

Stock, winner of the 200-meter backstroke, and Stickle, the 400-meter individual medley champion, asked to be left off the team in order to devote the time to their studies at Indiana University.

Andrasen, a 17-year-old diver from Anaheim, Calif., and winner of the three-meter springboard competition, was chosen over Lt. Tom Gompf, an Air Force jet fighter pilot who captured the 10-meter platform event and finished a narrow 10 points ahead of Andrasen.

The team includes such record breakers as Don Schollander of Santa Clara, Calif., whose 4:17.7 in the 400-meter freestyle established an American citizen's record; Carl Robie of the Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia who bettered his own American and meet record in the 200-meter butterfly with 2:08.8; and Steve Clark of the Santa Clara Swim Club.

Local Patrolman on Winning Pistol Team

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Highway Patrol won the team title in police competition at the National Rifle and Pistol Championships Sunday. Members of the team were Luther B. Dunfee, Lancaster; Roger M. McGinnis, Delta; Charles W. Robinson, Dover; and James M. Wattleworth, Salem. Their score was 1,106-24.

The top civilian in the national trophy individual championship competition was Jerry Neal of Mentor-on-the-Lake with a score of 28-56.

to a hit during the first three innings, while his Dairy Isle championship Class H teammates were scoring 12 runs. The unit went on to an easy 14-8 decision. Also during the weekend, Dairy Isle clipped Moose 16-8.

CIO 1538 snapped Ailes Insurance four-game win streak 13-7.

Moose rallied in the last two innings to pull its contest out of the fire. The winners tied it 3-3 in the sixth, then chalked up three markers in the seventh on

Bombers Take Twin Bill From Carroll All-Stars

The Centennial Park Bombers took a double-header from the Carroll County All-Stars Sunday, 10-2 and 7-3.

Ray Lambert tossed a 4-hitter to cop the opener. A 2-run first inning triple by Rich Cranmer gave the Bombers a 2-0 lead and a big 6-run rally in the fifth paved the way for the win. Ray Lambert had two of the eight Bomber hits.

Bob Briskin's power-hitting featured the 13-hit attack in the second game with two home runs and a double. Wally Simmon notched the win as the little southpaw gave up six hits. Ray Lambert had a double and two singles and Rod Bentley, Wally Ward and Bob Mackey each had two hits in blasting All Star pitching.

The Bombers play at East Rochester this afternoon and then take a break until Thursday's battle with Alliance Machine in Alliance.

Class G All-Stars Will Drill Tuesday

The Class G All-Stars of the Salem Junior Baseball Leagues will hold a practice at Memorial West Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Those boys chosen from UCT, National Cleaners, Scotts Sports, Bricker and Bricker and Hunt's Industrial Union are urged to attend the drill.

Giants Dump Phils, Mays Hits Safely In 13th Game; Cincy Beats LA Twice

By JACK HAND
Willie Mays is hitting and the Giants are winning. The National League story is as simple as that. With Willie still working on a 13-game hitting string, San Francisco has won 15 of its last 19. From 10 games back on July 20, the Giants now trail the Los Angeles Dodgers by only 3½ games with seven weeks to go.

The fellow who was quoting odds on a Dodger-Yankee World Series when the fight mob was in Las Vegas in late July must have revised his line. The Dodgers may win it but they are no

"out" bet.
The front-line Dodger pitching faltered Sunday when Cincinnati knocked out Sandy Koufax in a six-run sixth inning en route to a 9-4 victory on 16 hits.

The Giants made it three in a row over the Phillies, 5-1, on a five-hitter by Jack Sanford with ninth-inning assist from Billy Hoelt and Don Larsen.

Jerry Lynch provided the heroics at Pittsburgh with a two-run homer that gave the Pirates a 2-1 edge over Houston. Hal Brown had a 1-0 lead with two out in the ninth. Then Roberto Clemente and Lynch hit his 10th home run.

Tony Cloninger turned in the top pitching job by striking out 11 St. Louis Cardinals while pitching a four-hitter for the Milwaukee Braves who beat Curt Simmons 9-1. Eddie Mathews hit a three-run homer for the Braves.

Dick Ellsworth won his 16th for the Chicago Cubs in the 8-1 opener but the New York Mets bounced back with a vengeance and clobbered the Cubs 11-4 for a split of their doubleheader.

Chuck Hiller drove in three runs for the Giants, two of them with a seventh-inning homer off John Booser, the relief man for loser Cal McLish. Mays' key double in the fifth opened up a 3-0 Giant lead.

Frank Robinson launched the bill sixth-inning rally for Cincinnati with his 16th homer. Koufax, rolling along with a 4-1 lead at the start of the sixth, was the victim. Instead of his 19th victory, Sandy had to settle for his fifth defeat. Jim O'Toole won his 15th with help from Al Worthington. Frank Howard and Tommy Davis homered for the Dodgers and Don Pavletich and Robinson for the Reds.

Yankees Rally To Beat Angels 6-4 Chicago, Detroit Split; Twins Roll

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's not bad enough that the New York Yankees are making a rout of the American League pennant race in their usual fashion, but now they've come up with a new gimmick: They're sending up their pinch hitters two or three times a game.

So you get him out the first time he comes up and the second or third time he kicks your head in. Unfair? Well, not quite.

Take Elston Howard and Hector Lopez. Howard went in to bat for Yogi Berra in the eighth inning of Sunday's game with the Los Angeles Angels and fled out in routine fashion. In the same inning Lopez batted for Al Downing and also fled out. No damage done.

But both of them stayed in the game.

So the Angels go into the ninth with a 4-1 lead and promptly retire the first two Yankees. But the next 2 draw walks and Howard comes up again. So Art Fowler comes out to face him. His first pitch lands in the left-field seats and it's a tie game.

So Lopez comes up again in the 10th with a runner on second and singles up the middle, driving in the tie-breaking run. He scored a second run a few minutes later on an Angel error.

So the Yankees with 6-4, extending their winning string to six, the Angels' losing string to seven and boosted the New York first-place margin over Chicago to nine full games.

The White Sox split a pair with Detroit, the Tigers winning the first 7-2 and the White Sox the second, 3-2 on Dave Nicholson's 18th homer of the season with one out in the 11th.

Minnesota closed to within a half game of the White Sox on the strength of their sixth straight victory, a 5-2 edge over Boston, while Cleveland edged Kansas

The Yankee victory at Los Angeles was their 19th in 25 games and their eighth in 10 extra-inning affairs this season. Howard's dramatic shot, his 23rd homer of the season, was the turning point.

In the 10th, winning pitcher Bill Stafford led off with a scratch single and went to second on Phil Linz' sacrifice. Lopez followed with his run-scoring single and one out later scored on shortstop Jim Fregosi's error.

Don Mincher and Zoilo Ver-salles hit homers for the streaking Twins, and Camilo Pascual stopped Boston on five hits for his 14th victory. The Red Sox' Dick Stuart increased his league-leading home run total to 28 with a two-run shot in the sixth.

Doubleheader At Cleveland Saturday Fumbles Costly In Browns Loss To Detroit In Exhibition

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Browns—off to a losing start in their first football game under new head coach Blanton Collier—got back to work today in preparation for their battle against the Baltimore Colts in the doubleheader at Cleveland Saturday night. A little glue on their fingers may help.

Lost fumbles—four of them—were a decisive factor in the 24-1 setback to the Lions in the exhibition opener at Detroit Saturday night.

The Browns were able to move the ball pretty well, gaining 243 yards including 160 through the air on passes by Frank Ryan and Jim Ninowski.

But the drives bogged down on fumbles. John Brewer dropped one after making a long gain. Jim Brown bobbled another and Ninowski and Ryan each had a miscue. Ryan's came on the Lions' 6-yard line when the Browns were driving for a fourth-quarter touchdown.

The first three fumbles were in the first period and Detroit cashed two of them in for 10 points. Milt Plum connected on a 25-yard pass to Dick Compton and Jim Martin booted a 30-yard field goal.

Ninowski capped a 30-yard drive by sneaking over from the end for Cleveland's only TD.

The only score for Cleveland in the second half was a 25-yard field goal by Lou Groza in the third period that cut the margin to 17-10. But the Lions came back with a 22-yard scoring pass from Earl Morrall to Pat Studstill to wind up the scoring.

Tribe Trims A's 2-0 On Latman's 3-Hitter

CLEVELAND (AP)—When he's good, he's great. But when he's bad, he's horrid. That's the story of broad-shouldered Barry Latman, Cleveland's on-again off-again pitcher.

He was great Sunday, pitching a three-hitter against Kansas City as the Indians got him two runs in the first inning and he made them stand up for a 2-1 triumph. Latman held the Athletics hitless for 5 2-3 innings. Then one of the men least likely to hit a home run—Jose Tartabull—poked one into the right field stands, 340 feet away.

That must have upset Latman, because Tartabull had gone to the plate 437 times in the major leagues without hitting a homer.

The next two batters, Wayne Causey and Jerry Lumpe, hit singles. Latman retired Norm Siebern on a fly to center.

That was it for Kansas City. In eight of the other innings, Latman didn't permit a hit. He walked only three and struck out seven.

The last time Latman pitched—if that's the correct term—was against Baltimore Aug. 6. He faced five batters, gave up four singles and a three-run homer in the first inning and took a shower. That's horrid.

Latman evened his record at 7-7. The Cleveland spread came on successive singles by Al Luplow, Tito Francona and Fred Whitfield. That produced one run off Orlando Pena.

Then with runners on first and third, Pena fired a wild pitch while pitching to Max Alvis. Francona crossed the plate—and that was the deciding run.

The Indians made a dozen hits—all singles, but stranded seven men. One was thrown out stealing and two were picked off bases.

Alvis had three hits, and Davalillo, Luplow and Francona had two each.

The Indians are idle today. They resume play Tuesday night in Chicago in the first of a two-game series. Dick Donovan and Jim Grant are scheduled to pitch against the White Sox.

Fullmer May Call It Quits After Losing

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Fullmer, mauled, bruised and badly beaten in his effort to regain the world middleweight boxing title returned to the United States to mull over the possibility of retirement.

"I have no plans for retiring and no plans for going on," Fullmer said Sunday night en route to his home in West Jordan, Utah. "I'm going home to talk it over with my family."

The 32-year-old fighting Mormon was cut and battered and drenched with his own blood Saturday before suffering a seventh-round TKO at the hands of champion Dick Tiger in Ibadan, Nigeria.

His wife, Dolores, said in West Jordan shortly after the fight that she hoped Gene, a former champion, would call it quits. Mrs. Fullmer, who has refused to watch her husband fight, repeated that he had promised to retire if he failed to beat the Nigerian champion.

The fight, the first title bout ever held in Nigeria, was scheduled for 15 rounds but Marv Jensen, Fullmer's manager, asked that it be stopped at the end of the seventh when the bleeding Fullmer was virtually defenseless against Tiger's two-handed attack. There were no knockdowns, but Fullmer was cut over the bridge of the nose and blinded in the later rounds by a freely bleeding cut over the right eye. His body was marked by angry, red welts as the bruises still showed on his face Sunday.

The British referee, the only official, declined to say how he had scored the fight but The Associated Press had Tiger winning every round.

The Nigerian government underwrote the bout, putting up $200,000 in guarantees. Fullmer was guaranteed $50,000 and $10,000 in expense and Tiger $100,000.

The fight was the third between Tiger and Fullmer. Tiger lifted the title from Gene with a 15-round decision in San Francisco last year and they fought to a 15-round draw in Las Vegas earlier this year.

Back From Hospital
"We are trying to choose a home from among those we've seen," said an attractive woman, Mrs. Mulden. "The choice narrows down to the older, larger home you showed us, and a newer, smaller one we located elsewhere. Can you advise us what to do?"

"No one should do the choosing for you," I replied. "But I can suggest a method of deciding which many people use."

"Good," she replied, "please tell me!"

"Benjamin Franklin said that whenever he faced a tough decision, he'd take a piece of paper, and draw a line down the middle. On one side he'd write the reasons for a certain action, and on the other, the reasons against. Then he'd see which side seemed to weigh the heavier. You might contrast the two homes in this way."

"We'll try it," she said.

The next morning, the Muldens came in. "We followed your suggestion," Mrs. Mulden

SALEM and ALLIANCE

A word from THERON at the Country Store

We just got the steer horns put on the new big truck. Now it looks like it belongs to our fleet.

Fritz next door here at the Shell service station installed them. He does a lot of work on our cars and trucks for us.

Their Dairy Bar which his wife Jane operates is doing a nice business. A lot of people tell me they run a very good place. I know they give you big portions. I have to tell them not to make them so big for me. I am trying to lose a few lbs. not very hard though I'm not.

Look Into the Future

World To Witness Vast Changes By Year 2,000

By HAROLD HARRISON

CINCINNATI (AP)—What will life be like in the year 2,000? What will have happened in the automotive field, in science, education, transportation, communications, aviation and health and medicine?

Fourteen business, professional, industrial, scientific, educational, and religious leaders, including Henry Ford II and space rocket scientist Dr. Werner Von Braun—have made predictions and here are some examples:

Those who sniffle and cough periodically will find that the common cold has been controlled; Disc-shaped personal air transporters will be flying around everywhere at up to 1,000 feet and they'll latch on to parking pads and hooks on top of and at the sides of buildings, in vacant lots and on roadways;

A high-speed, fully automatic system for automobile travel will be in operation and allow for automobile travel at 200 to 500 miles an hour for inter-city travel;

There will be 100-mile-an-hour freight trains with cars which virtually will unload themselves;

Man will be going around the surface of the earth at 1,000 miles an hour and around the sun at 18 miles a second and there will be manned space flights among the inner planets;

A car telephone will be commonplace and you also will be able to carry your personal radiotelephone in your pocket or handbag; The average work week will have declined to 25 hours with vacations of a month or more the rule.

It will be possible to keep food products for weeks without refrigeration.

Those forecasts, along with others, were placed recently in a box in the cornerstone of a new Union Central Life Insurance Co. building here. The box will be opened in the year 2,000 and, under the normal life span, millions will be around to see whether the forecasts came true.

As an addition to the box, President Kennedy and former Presidents Herbert Hoover, Dwight D.

Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman were asked to submit what they felt to be the "most profound" thought they ever had heard of read.

For President Kennedy, his office submitted a quotation from Edmund Burke—"The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing." Former President Eisenhower's was the Biblical quotation, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

Former President Hoover listed the Bill of Rights. Former President Truman listed four Biblical passages encompassing the Sermon on the Mount and the Ten Commandments.

In addition to predicting the high speed for inter-city travel, Ford foresaw that automobile interior dimensions would be about the same as now and he added that cars "still will use four wheels and an engine." He also predicted that electronics will permit a driver to be warned of impending danger so he can make adjustments.

Von Braun predicted the space travel and also said, "The accurate and world-wide prediction of weather will be a fact and the control of the Earth's climate and weather will be well underway."

In the field of food retailing, Jacob E. Davis, president of the Kroger Co. chain grocery firm, said freeze-drying and radiation sterilization would bring about preparation of foods which would be kept without refrigeration. He also foresaw pre-packaging of fresh fruits and vegetables so they will be ready to be eaten or cooked when they leave the field.

For the benefit of the tired husband who often has to help with the dishes, he added:

"Even daily dishwashing may disappear with the advent of throwaway plastic dishes which might be molded to order before each meal."

In the field of machine tooling, Frederick E. Geier, Cincinnati Milling Machine Co., predicted it will be commonplace to have precision finer than millionths of an inch and there will be complex mechanisms for appliances that will last trouble-free for years.

Dr. Nelson Glueck, president of the Hebrew Union College, and a noted archeologist, predicted that by the year 2,000 events will have been such that future archeologists "will unravel an age of glory or a cataclysmic setback in the history of human development."

Bayard L. Kilgour Jr., Cincinnati & Suburban Bell Telephone Co. president, who made the telephone predictions also forecast that there would be world-wide dialing of phones as well as picture-phones by which the callers will be able to see each other.

The forecast of the disc-shaped personal air transporters came from James LaPierre, General Electric Co. executive. He also predicted jet planes would be traveling 2,200 m.p.h. in transcontinental traffic and 9,000 m.p.h. in intercontinental traffic.

Fred Lazarus Jr., board chairman of Federated Department Stores, raised the questions as to whether year 2,000 would bring cosmetics to allow persons to "moonlight" gracefully and as to whether such items as shirts, socks, shorts and slacks will be of some synthetic material so they can be thrown away after single wearing.

Dr. Johnson McGuire, University of Cincinnati Medical School laboratory, who predicted control of the common cold, also foresaw that measures to control heritable diseases by prevention of marriage or sterilization will have been taken by statute in certain countries and that some more advanced countries may limit the number of children in a family to control the population.

Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president, University of Cincinnati, foresaw that in the field of education undergraduates in colleges will be working in many of the areas now reserved for graduate students.

The Very Rev. Paul L. O'Connor, president of Xavier University, predicted "the intellectual approach to religion will accelerate" and he declared the rancor and violence toward other systems already is beginning to disappear.

On the subject of Economy, Dr. Robert Wessel, University of Cincinnati economist, predicted the gross national product would be almost $3 trillion and that the average middle income family would have almost $12,000 to spend annually.

William Zimmer, Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. president, declaring that low cost fossil fuels will be exhausted in 75 to 100 years, predicted that half of the total electricity generated in the year 2,000 will come from nuclear plants.

Dr. McGuire accompanied his prediction with the observation that "if 25 or more countries manufacture atomic weapons, a new Adam and Eve may be the first to read this forecast."

Several said, of course, that some things never change.

Lazarus, for example, in writing of fashions and clothing, listed two things which he said never would change:

"A man will want something new and beautiful for his woman. She will want to dine by candlelight."

$50,000 FIRE DAMAGE

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Damage from a fire at Brown's Supermarket in downtown Loveland has been estimated at around $50,000. Firemen brought the blaze under control soon after its discovery Sunday morning, but it was hours before smoldering debris was cleared away from the rear of the building, where the fire apparently started.

ROTARY CLUB LUNCHEON

Franklin V. Stauffer, general manager of Bellows-Valair Hydraulics Division, will be the speaker when the Rotary Club holds its weekly luncheon session Tuesday noon at the Memorial Building.

HISTORY IN THE (RE)MAKING—Cristobal Colon is preparing a boat in Spain to go to the New World. What sounds like a 15th-century news flash describes the activities of a shipbuilder of that name who is constructing a replica of the "Santa Maria" in Barcelona. Unlike the flagship of the original Cristobal Colon—or Christopher Columbus—Santa Maria II will make the crossing in a floating dry dock. Its destination is New York, where it will confine its sailing to an artificial lake at the 1964 World's Fair.

All New TV Series Called 'Sure Things'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The favorite indoor and poolside sport of this show business town now, as always in late summer, is predicting next season's hit television shows.

The community is full of self-proclaimed experts on the subject, and the most fascinating aspect of the game is that almost anybody can be right.

After two weeks of visiting television sets, talking with producers, directors, stars, executives and, of course, press agents, I have been assured that every new series encountered undoubtedly will be a hit.

For what preseason talk is worth, there's a lot about the incoming NBC Bill Dana comedy series. By coincidence it will occupy the Sunday night spot vacated by "Ensign O'Toole," which received the same kind of talk last year at this time but survived for only one season.

CBS' "My Favorite Martian" also is a Sunday evening entry and the subject for particularly enthusiastic predictions. This is unusual in that it will attempt to marry fantasy and satire in a comedy. It concerns the adventures of a visitor from another planet who arrives equipped with built-in antennae and assorted powers including ability to become invisible at will.

The theory is that the kiddies enjoy the magic and the adults will enjoy the magic and adults body will be happy.

ABC and many of the crystal-ball gazers are expecting interesting response to "Burke's Law," an action series done in a debonair and sophisticated manner. It stars a millionaire man-about-town who is also a police detective.

A number of shows have been beset by production troubles. ABC's "Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" lost its producer by death; CBS removed the producer and took most of the writers off "The Judy Garland Show" after five shows had been taped; NBC's "Richard Boone Show," an anthology series, has been set back by the illness of playwright Clifford Odets, story editor of the series. But until premier dates in September and October, the promise of each of the 32 new shows is bright.

FIRE DAMAGES MAIL

NEW PARIS, Ohio (AP)—A fire blamed on a hot brake caused heavy damage to mail in a Pennsylvania Railroad car Sunday night.

Firemen took 100 sacks of mail from the burning car and sent it to Richmond, Ind. About half the mail sacks were damaged. Postal authorities declined to estimate the loss before making an investigation.

Harmon Cummings Is New Leetonia Band Director

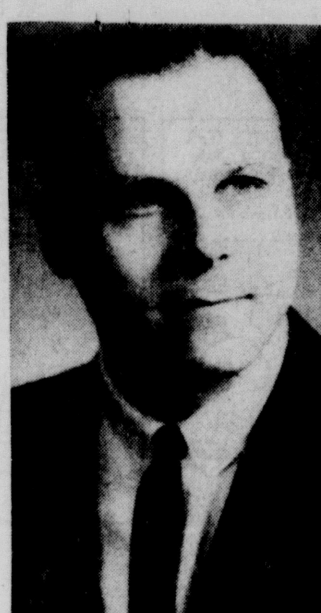

LEETONIA — When the Leetonia High School band takes to the field next month, a new man from Oklahoma will be directing. Replacing Karl Meinhardt, instrumental music instructor for seven years, will be Harmon Dean Cummings, 29-year-old Pawhuska, Okla., native.

The Leetonia Board of Education hired Cummings after Meinhardt resigned to accept a similar position at Geneva.

Cummings is a graduate of Oklahoma State University and Eastman School of Music in Rochester N. Y. After launching his music teaching career at Durant (Okla.) Junior High, he entered the Army and was named solo trombonist with the 5th U. S. Army band.

After his discharge he returned to his home town to teach brass instruments. He received his master's degree in music education from Eastman last year.

Prior to the Leetonia position, he was director of instrumental and vocal music at Marmet, W. Va. His wife, Elizabeth, has a degree in music from Ohio Wesley-
